2.4 Relationship of this Course to Other Courses
ECON5103 is a prerequisite for other postgraduate courses offered by the School of Economics.
It is also designed to satisfy the requirements of professional bodies, who require their members to have a basic knowledge of Economics.

2.5 Approach to Learning and Teaching
The philosophy underpinning this course and its Teaching and Learning Strategies (see 3.3 below ) are based on “Guidelines on Learning that Inform Teaching at UNSW. These guidelines may be viewed at: www.guidelinesonlearning.unsw.edu.au.
3. COURSE AIMS AND OUTCOMES

3.1 COURSE AIMS
The aim of this course is to provide an introduction to economic analysis, with particular applications to decision-making in business. On completion of this course, students should have an understanding of economic concepts, be able to construct economic arguments in terms of these concepts, and be able to apply simple economic models to the analysis of relevant economic issues. The course assumes no previous study of economics.

3.2 STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES
The course aims to provide benefits to business students in terms of:
- The ability to use economic principles in ‘rational’ decision-making;
- An understanding of the economic environment in which business decisions must be made;
- An understanding of the key business and economic statistics that are periodically released by Australian government and international agencies, including the Australian Bureau of Statistics, the Reserve Bank of Australia, the Australian Treasury, the OECD and the IMF; and
- An understanding of the role and impact of economic policy.

On completion of the course, students should be able to:
1. Demonstrate an understanding of economic concepts and their appropriate usage
2. Construct economic arguments in terms of these concepts, and present logical economic arguments in both written and oral form
3. Apply simple economic models to the analysis of relevant economic issues.

3.3 TEACHING AND LEARNING STRATEGIES
The examinable content of the course is defined by the Text references given in the Lecture Schedule, the content of Lectures, and the content of the Tutorial Program.

Lectures
The purpose of Lectures is to provide a logical structure for the topics that make up the course; to emphasise the important concepts and methods of each topic, and to provide relevant examples to which the concepts and methods are applied.

Tutorials
The purpose of tutorial meetings is primarily to provide an opportunity for small group discussion of issues to which economic concepts and methods can be applied, and to provide practice and feedback in the construction of short essays addressing specific questions. (The Discussion Questions).

A Tutorial Program of Discussion Questions and Review Questions is provided for each tutorial meeting.

The Review Questions consist of problems and exercises designed to provide a “self-test” of important aspects of each topic. Students should attempt each set of weekly exercises and check the solutions on the course website, prior to each tutorial. If time permits, tutorials may also provide an opportunity for assistance with those Review Questions that provide difficulties for students.
Out-of-Class Study
While students may have preferred individual learning strategies, it is important to note that most learning will be achieved outside of class time. Lectures can only provide a structure to assist your study, and tutorial time is limited. An “ideal” strategy (on which the provision of the course materials is based) might include:

*Reading of the relevant chapter(s) of the text and accessing the lecture overheads from the course website before the lecture.
This will give you a general idea of the topic area.

*Attendance at lecture.
Here the context of the topic in the course and the important elements of the topic are identified. The relevance of the topic should be explained.

* Attempting the Review Questions, checking their solutions, and preparing notes for the Discussion Questions.
This will identify the things you need to do to demonstrate your understanding of a topic, and guide your re-reading of specific parts of the text. This will also provide a self-test of your understanding, and identify those parts of the topic with which you have problems.
This should be done after the lecture and before the following week’s tutorial.

* Attending Tutorials
Your notes on the Discussion Question(s) should equip you to take part in discussion of the issues and provide feedback about how you would construct an essay type answer to the Discussion Question as practice for the similar questions that will appear in the final exam paper.
4. STUDENT RESPONSIBILITIES AND CONDUCT

4.1 WORKLOAD
It is expected that you will spend at least ten hours per week studying this course. This time should be made up of reading, research, working on exercises and problems, and attending classes. In periods where you need to research and write-up an assignment, or prepare for an exam, the workload may be greater.

Over-commitment has been a cause of failure for many students. You should take the required workload into account when planning how to balance study with employment and other activities.

4.2 ATTENDANCE
Your regular and punctual attendance at lectures and seminars is expected in this course. University regulations indicate that if students attend less than eighty per cent of scheduled classes they may be refused final assessment.

4.3 GENERAL CONDUCT AND BEHAVIOUR
You are expected to conduct yourself with consideration and respect for the needs of your fellow students and teaching staff. Conduct which unduly disrupts or interferes with a class, such as ringing or talking on mobile phones, is not acceptable and students may be asked to leave the class. More information on student conduct is available at: www.my.unsw.edu.au

4.4 KEEPING INFORMED
You should take note of all announcements made in lectures, tutorials or on the course web site. In particular you should check “Announcements” on the course website at least once a week. From time to time, the University will send important announcements to your university e-mail address without providing you with a paper copy. You will be deemed to have received this information.

5. ASSESSMENT

5.1 FORMAL REQUIREMENTS
In order to pass this course, you must:
- achieve a composite mark of at least 50; and
- make a satisfactory attempt at all assessment tasks (see below).

ESSAY ASSIGNMENT
Written Assignment
The written assignment requires students to submit a report written in grammatical English

Topic: The factors determining movements in the general level of interest rates in Australia

Assume that you are to contribute to advice for a business enterprise which is considering the re-financing of a substantial loan.

The choices open to the enterprise are:
(i) To borrow at a variable rate of interest at the current market rate. This rate will be adjusted each month in line with market fluctuations in the level of interest rates.
(ii) To borrow at a fixed rate which is 1% higher than the current market rate. This rate will be fixed for three years.

The enterprise is obviously interested in predicting future movements in the level of market interest rates. It is not your task to provide a prediction. Rather you are to provide a summary of the factors which determine movements in Australian interest rates, and the direction and mechanisms by which these factors affect interest rates.

Your report must not exceed 1200 words (exclusive of tables, appendices and references). It should be submitted to your tutor in the tutorial on 18 October.

Sources
In addition to the textbook and lecture references the following references are especially useful for this topic:
Reserve Bank Bulletin, and Statements on Monetary Policy (www.rba.gov.au – and follow links);
Additional references will be provided.

MID-SESSION EXAMINATION:
A mid-session exam will be held on Thursday 6 September at 6pm. (Location to be advised) There are no lectures or tutorials held this week (Week 7). The location of the examination will be announced in lectures and will also be posted on the course Website. The exam will cover materials covered in Lectures Weeks 1-5 inclusive), and will consist of 20 multiple-choice questions worth a total of 20 marks to be answered in 60 minutes.

The purpose of this assessment is to test knowledge of concepts, the ability to use economic reasoning to make deductions, and to perform simple calculations of costs and benefits. Sample practice questions will be provided on the course website.

Note: There will be NO supplementary exam offered for the Mid-Session Examination. Students who fail to attend the Mid-session Examination will need to apply for Special Consideration. Special Consideration applications must be made within 3 days of the Exam through StudentCentral in the Chancellery and NOT through the lecturer-in-charge or course administrator (you should advise the course administrator that you have made an application). You will need to provide full documentation of the reason for the absence (eg, illness). Employment obligations of any kind are not acceptable reasons for absence from any test/examination.

Those students whose request is granted for Special Consideration for the mid-session examination, will have their final mark reweighted according to the weight of the missed piece of assessment. (eg if consideration is granted for a student’s absence from the mid-session examination, their Tutorial Assessment and Final Exam marks will be scaled up by a factor of 1.25).

FINAL EXAMINATION:
This will be held in the University examination period (November) and will be 2 hours long. The final exam will cover the entire course. The format of the examination will be:
Part A: 20 multiple choice questions
Part B: 1 essay type questions from a choice of 3 covering Lecture Topics Weeks 1 – 7.
Part C: 1 essay type questions from a choice of 3 covering Lecture Topics Weeks 8 – 14.

Further information on the content of the Final Exam will be provided towards the end of session.
The purpose of the final exam is to assess knowledge of economic concepts and their appropriate use, to test the ability to use economic reasoning to make deductions, and to test the ability to perform simple calculations of costs and benefits.

It is important to note that a satisfactory performance in the Final Examination is required to pass this course.

5.3 SPECIAL CONSIDERATION AND SUPPLEMENTARY EXAMINATIONS
A supplementary final examination may be offered to students who failed to attend the final examination for medical reasons, or whose performance during the final examination has been severely affected by illness, or other extraordinary circumstances that can be documented by the student. Supplementary examinations are not offered as a matter of course. The following conditions, must be fulfilled before such an application to sit for a supplementary final examination will be considered:
(i) the student's performance during the session (based on the student’s assignment mark and midsession exam mark) must be deemed to be at a satisfactory level by the lecturer-in-charge, and
(ii) the student has applied for special consideration which is made through StudentCentral within 5 days of the final examination, and the application is supported with full documentation.

Notes:
If a supplementary examination is granted, the format of that examination will be similar to that of the final examination.
Students who are granted a supplementary examination will be advised of the date of the supplementary exam as soon as possible, and students have the responsibility to make themselves available to sit for the supplementary exam on the date specified.
6. ACADEMIC HONESTY AND PLAGIARISM

The University regards plagiarism as a form of academic misconduct, and has very strict rules regarding plagiarism. For full information regarding policies, penalties and information to help you avoid plagiarism see: www.lc.unsw.edu.au/plagiarism

Plagiarism is the presentation of the thoughts or work of another as one’s own.* Examples include:

- direct duplication of the thoughts or work of another, including by copying work, or knowingly permitting it to be copied. This includes copying material, ideas or concepts from a book, article, report or other written document (whether published or unpublished), composition, artwork, design, drawing, circuitry, computer program or software, web site, Internet, other electronic resource, or another person’s assignment without appropriate acknowledgement;
- paraphrasing another person’s work with very minor changes keeping the meaning, form and/or progression of ideas of the original;
- piecing together sections of the work of others into a new whole;
- presenting an assessment item as independent work when it has been produced in whole or in part in collusion with other people, for example, another student or a tutor; and,
- claiming credit for a proportion a work contributed to a group assessment item that is greater than that actually contributed.†

Submitting an assessment item that has already been submitted for academic credit elsewhere may also be considered plagiarism.

The inclusion of the thoughts or work of another with attribution appropriate to the academic discipline does not amount to plagiarism.

Students are reminded of their Rights and Responsibilities in respect of plagiarism, as set out in the University Undergraduate and Postgraduate Handbooks, and are encouraged to seek advice from academic staff whenever necessary to ensure they avoid plagiarism in all its forms.

The Learning Centre website is the central University online resource for staff and student information on plagiarism and academic honesty. It can be located at:

www.lc.unsw.edu.au/plagiarism

The Learning Centre also provides substantial educational written materials, workshops, and tutorials to aid students, for example, in:

- correct referencing practices;
- paraphrasing, summarising, essay writing, and time management;
- appropriate use of, and attribution for, a range of materials including text, images, formulae and concepts.

Individual assistance is available on request from The Learning Centre. Students are also reminded that careful time management is an important part of study and one of the identified causes of plagiarism is poor time management. Students should allow sufficient time for research, drafting, and the proper referencing of sources in preparing all assessment items.
