Why an Honours Scholarships Initiative?

The Faculty of Commerce and Economics at UNSW is acknowledged as one of the best in the southern hemisphere, and graduates around 2000 energetic and capable young people each year.

Our vision is to be the leading business faculty in the Asian region; our mission is, through excellence in scholarship, to enhance the capability of our students and staff to add value to the organisations, professions and communities in which they aspire to leadership roles.

One of the ways we promote excellence is by encouraging and assisting our brightest and best students to extend their studies for an additional year and become Honours students.

Who benefits from Honours studies? Ultimately we all do

The student derives enormous personal and professional advantage from a further year of advanced studies in small groups, with talented peers and world class teaching staff.

Honours students gain highly developed research, critical analysis and problem solving skills, valuable in business and essential to an academic career.

The faculty Working with motivated, ambitious and extremely bright young people keeps academic staff stimulated, challenged, and excited. The investment for them is not simply about developing the individual, but developing a potential future colleague.

Business In a knowledge-based economy, one of the single most important assets is intellectual capital. Honours graduates are a unique and highly qualified talent pool for the business world; they also provide many of the researchers of the future.

Businesses can also benefit directly from sharing in research projects.

The Honours Scholarships Appeal Fund

We have established a new Appeal Fund to provide vital financial assistance to our very best students to enable them to extend their studies. The Honours Scholarships Appeal Fund is a discrete endowment fund within, and managed by, the UNSW Foundation.

Donations to the Fund are fully tax-deductible.

The FCE Honours Scholarships Program

We are developing a special cross-disciplinary program specifically to help and encourage our best Honours students to get the most out of their additional time with the Faculty. There will be a number of opportunities for companies to become involved with and to support the program.

How can you contribute?

Individuals
You can fund a scholarship, or make a donation to the Fund which together with other gifts will help to establish future scholarships. A gift of $5000 pays for a scholarship for one year.

The suggested minimum donation from a private individual is $100. Substantial gifts can be spread over three years.

Endowing a named scholarship will create a permanent scholarship in your name or that of a loved one. If you are interested in this option please use the form overleaf to contact us.

Recognising your gift Your donation will be recorded in the Honour Roll of the Faculty and the University, on our website, and in Faculty publications. If you endow a scholarship it can be named for you, your family, or in memory of a loved one.

As a valued supporter of the Fund, you will be invited to participate in our Faculty network and program of activities.

Companies
We welcome corporate donations to the Fund, and suggest a minimum donation of $1,000. A gift of $5,000 pays for a scholarship for one year. As with individual gifts, larger donations can be spread over a three year period.

Endowing a named scholarship will create a permanent scholarship in your company’s name. If you are interested in this option please use the form overleaf to contact us.

Recognising your gift Your donation will be recorded in the Faculty and University Honour Roll, on our website, and in Faculty and UNSW publications.

Endowing a named scholarship creates an opportunity for permanent recognition of your company within the Faculty’s student community and wide-reaching international business networks. Your company will be invited to present its scholarship at the Faculty’s annual Prizes and Scholarships Ceremony.
