Course Overview

Integrated marketing communication (IMC) is the coordination of all points of contact an organisation has with the marketplace. Traditional marketing communication vehicles such as advertising, public relations, direct marketing, sales promotion, the internet and other forms of new media are no longer isolated functions. An IMC approach is designed to leverage the synergy of combined functions. The course explores the development of the IMC approach and current issues surrounding implementation of an IMC approach; provides an overview of the communication tools and an introduction to the IMC planning process.

Communication planning is an integral part of marketing planning and cannot be done without dialogue between all parties who manage the various marketing elements necessary to a comprehensive marketing plan. Therefore the course assumes that participants will have a good understanding of the marketing function in organisations, consumer behaviour and business structures.

Course Aims

By the end of this course, students should be able to:

- Fully understand all aspects of integrated marketing communications
- Appreciate the issues that an organisation needs to address if IMC is to be adequately implemented
- Understand IMC planning
- Develop and evaluate IMC plans
Workload

It is expected that you will normally spend 5 to 6 hours a week studying this course. In addition to attending classes, you will need to devote time to:
- Reading and researching
- Class preparation
- Practice exercises
- Assessment tasks

In periods where you need to complete assignments or prepare for examinations the time required may be greater. If you lack background knowledge for the course – whether in quantitative techniques, academic writing skills or other areas – you may also need to devote additional time.

Please note that Faculty reviews consistently show that two factors have a detrimental effect on students’ academic performance:
- Undertaking an excessive workload of study and paid employment
- Poor time management, especially insufficient time devoted to study outside of classes

You should take the required workload into account when planning how to balance study with paid employment and other activities.

Format and teaching approach

This course consists of five, four hour class sessions/ workshops. The class is a seminar format – a combination of information delivery and dialogue. Class tasks/exercises will require participants to contribute expertise and will also require some pre class preparation as we will using case studies and exercises. As the course is short, but intensive, you are required to attend the class sessions and to read the set material.

There is no exam for the course but you will be expected to complete and submit assignment by the set dates.

WebCT

Master of Marketing courses use a WebCT environment for all on-line components. Please ensure that you have access to WebCT as this will be your major link to course information, relevant articles and the most effective contact point for questions relating to the course and assignments.
Assessment

Your will be required to read and evaluate two case studies, prepare a discussion paper and prepare an integrated marketing communication plan. Assignments will accrue a total mark of 100%. There is no final exam.

Case studies for evaluation

(1) National Aquaculture Council: Inland Saline Aquaculture (ISA) - Communication Plan
(2) Program for early parent support - integrated marketing communication plan

Using an established framework such as the RABOSTIC planning model (Chapter 13-Integrated Marketing Communications- David Pickton and Amanda Broderick)* evaluate the planning process of the two cases.

A copy of this chapter is available on WebCT

Assessment will be based on:

A demonstrated understanding of the principles involved in communication planning
Quality of case evaluation

Due: 2\textsuperscript{nd} April
Weight: 30%
Word length: 2000 (approx).

Discussion Paper

Although IMC has increasing acceptance, its adoption is not trouble free. Organisation structures and effectiveness measurement are two issues that to date have not been adequately dealt with. Your task is to read the relevant literature, summarise it, identify the key issues and evaluate the preferred solutions.

Some relevant articles can be accessed via WebCT although you are encouraged to seek additional resource material.

The paper will be assessed in two parts:

- The first: a summary of the key problems. This should be completed by April the 3\textsuperscript{rd} (final session).
- The second part consisting of an overview of the discussion in class on the 3\textsuperscript{rd} April plus your observations of the discussion and your evaluation of solutions is due on or before the 11\textsuperscript{th} April.
Assessment will be based on:

Demonstrated understanding of concepts and principles
Quality of perspectives and alternatives evaluation and argument coherence
Quality of own ideas/thinking
Systematic presentation of concepts
Understanding of relevant literature and its theoretical grounding

Due: 3rd April (second paper)
Weight: 30%
Word length: 2500 (approx)

IMC Planning Task

Using the information set out in the Van de Velde SA case prepare an integrated marketing communication plan for the organisation. The case is available on WebCT. Reference should be made to the RABOSTIC model (Chapter 13- Integrated Marketing Communications- David Pickton and Amanda Broderick) and/or to Ogden, J. (1998) Developing a creative and innovative integrated marketing communication plan: a working model Prentice Hall: Saddle River NJ., and of course, class notes. The assignment should be submitted on or before April 22nd.

Assessment will be based on:

Understanding of the case material
Interpretation and application of IMC planning principles
Robustness of plan

Due: 22nd April
Weight: 30%
Word length: 2500-3000 (approx)

Unless otherwise indicated, feedback for all assessment (except final examination) will be provided within two weeks of submission.

Assignment submission

Unless otherwise arranged with the lecturer, all assessment must be submitted in the class in which it is due. Final assignment should be submitted electronically to m craigle@aut.ac.nz or m.craig-lees@unsw.edu.au. All assignments must be accompanied by an Assessment Cover Sheet. Copies of the assessment cover sheet are available on the Master of Marketing website at: http://www.

Late submission

Assignments are due on the date indicated in this overview. Extensions will only be granted on medical or compassionate grounds under extreme circumstances, and will not be granted because of work and other commitments. Requests for extensions must be made in writing to the lecturer prior to the due date. Medical certificates or other evidence of extreme misfortune must be attached and must contain information that justifies the extension sought. Late submission of assignments will incur a penalty of 2% of the percentage weight of the assessment component per day after the due date.
Word count & assignment format

A basic requirement is that assignments should show a high degree of professionalism in both content and presentation. Do not hand in any written work where each page is enclosed in a clear plastic envelope. This makes it difficult to give feedback. Also, please ensure that you allow the 2cm margin requirements and that your font size is at least 10 point. Line spacing can be 1.5 or double, but not single. Please ensure that you understand what Plagiarism entails and avoid it. Please note that the time set for the submission for assignments must be adhered to. Extensions may be granted on medical and/or compassionate grounds provided they are adequately documented. It should be noted when topics are discussed in class late assignments related to these topics will, even if extensions have been granted late assignments will not be accepted once assignments have been marked and returned to students. Students should schedule their workload carefully to avoid inadequate and late submissions of assignments. Students are required to keep a copy of each assignment submitted as they may be asked to submit the copy in case the original has been lost.

Summary of assignment requirements:
- typed
- lines double spaced
- 2cm margins
- A4 paper
- pages should not be inserted in single plastic sheets
- pages should be numbered

Please keep the length of the assignment in accordance with the word count set. Students should note that inadequately referenced assignments will be penalised.
Student responsibilities

Attendance and participation

Students are expected to be regular and punctual in attendance at all classes in the courses in which they are enrolled. It is important to note that if students attend less than eighty per cent of their possible classes they may be refused final assessment. All requests for non-attendance at class must be submitted to your lecturer or the Director, Master of Marketing.

Academic honesty

Students and staff are governed by the normal laws which regulate our daily lives. But in addition the University has its own code of rules and conduct. This is because good conduct and academic honesty are fundamental to the mission of the University as an institution devoted to the pursuit of excellence in scholarship and research, and to the service of society. These principles apply not only to students but to the whole University community, including staff engaged in research. They have been developed over many years and are widely supported by staff and students. Staff and students are committed to good conduct and academic honesty and are keen to see that these values and principles are upheld.

The University Council has defined student misconduct as follows (29th August 1994): Student misconduct includes student academic misconduct and also encompasses conduct which impairs the reasonable freedom of other persons to pursue their studies or research or to participate in the life of the University.

It is the responsibility of all students to familiarise themselves with the rules that govern student and academic misconduct. For more information, please see: http://www.student.unsw.edu.au/academiclife/assessment/academic_misconduct.shtml

Plagiarism

Plagiarism is considered academic misconduct and, as such, will be severely penalised. Plagiarism involves using the work of another person and presenting it as one’s own. Acts of plagiarism include copying parts of a document without acknowledging and providing the source for each quotation or piece of borrowed material. These rules against plagiarism apply whatever the source of the work relied upon may be, whether printed, stored on a compact disc or other medium, found on the World Wide Web or Internet.
Similarly, using or extracting another person’s concepts, experimental results or conclusions, summarising another person’s work or, where, there is collaborative preparatory work, submitting substantially the same final version of any material as another student constitutes plagiarism.

It is your responsibility to make sure you acknowledge within your writing where you have “sourced” the information, ideas and facts etc.

The basic principles are that you should not attempt to pass off the work of another person as your own, and it should be possible for a reader to check the information and ideas that you have used by going to the original source material. Acknowledgment should be sufficiently accurate to enable the source to be located speedily. If you are unsure whether, or how, to make acknowledgment consult your lecturer.

For more information on plagiarism and how to avoid it, visit the UNSW Learning Centre website: http://www.lc.unsw.edu.au/onlib/plag.html
